9:00am-10:15pm	Session 4A Lime Burning in Ontario – Characteristics and Cultural Value – Christopher Andreae Ontario’s lime burning industry, dating from c1830 to c1930, is scattered across much of southern Ontario. Public awareness of its cultural value ranges from oblivious to curious. The industry was located primarily in rural areas and generally did not leave adverse environmental impacts on the countryside - unlike many other industrial activities. Heritage planning issues associated with lime burning are applicable to most other “old” provincial industrial sites.	Knights of Columbus Hall
